Charter 4 Change (C4C) was also announced during 2015 signed by around 40 globally prominent INGOs, and more than 150 national and local NGOs has signed as endorser. And there was milestone commitment was agreed and announced as Grand Bargain (GB) during World Humanitarian Summit (WHS) May 2016 in Istanbul, Turkey. Almost all major donor countries, UN agencies and INGO networks has signed the GB commitments. Which is the first declarations with measurable 51 indicators under 10 streams primarily towards localization, transparency and participation revolution. Apart from these, there was another global discourse i.e., Aid effectiveness to Development effectiveness, state parties along with UN agencies and multilateral financial institutions like World Bank has been organized this. There was discussion and milestone agreement have had happened especially in Monterrey Consensus (2002), Paris Declaration on Aid Effectiveness (2005), Accra Agenda for Development Effectiveness (2008), Busan Partnership for Effective Development Cooperation (2011) and at the latest in Nairobi Declaration for Development Effectiveness (2016) . One of the major outcome is GPEDC (Global Platform on Effective Development Cooperation), the body to promote cooperation between state, private sectors and the civil societies. Currently Finance Minister, Bangladesh is the co- chair of the GPEDC along with the Finance Minister from Germany and Uganda. The process has accepted the notion of civil society as the equal actor in the process of development. Now a days political sociologists consider state as first, private or market as second and civil society or NGO as the third sector.

	Bangladeshi CSO/NGOs was always proactive in participating to all those discourses. Taking this in continuation during 2016-2019 again there was country wide process of sensitization, where conferences have taken place in 8 divisions and 24 districts, where three specific outcomes have been discussed and specified as (i) how CSO/NGOs will be more accountable, (ii) what and how we expect cooperation from government, development partners (INGOs and donors) and we may expect (iii) how we in our wider sector can have positive engagement, cooperation and coordination with government. This planned conference is a final culmination of presenting those in front of key policy leaders from national and international level and also to pledge how as CSO/NGO will be accountable and to contribute in country's commitment to achieve SDG, vision 2021 and 2041.
